EVENT MODERATOR AND
SPEAKER BIOS

North Sea Conference

Oldenburg, 24-26 June 2025

Moderator BIO

Dr. Ilke Borowski-Maaser Event Moderator

For more than two decades, Dr. Ilke Borowski-Maaser has been facilitating collaboration for a sustainable society, often focusing on environmental issues such as water management. For her, facilitating means making collaboration easy, effective and sustainable for all stakeholders and the environment. Her training as a facilitator, mediator and change manager is complemented by her background as an environmental engineer. With her company INTERESSEN IM FLUSS, she has supported several projects funded by the North Sea Programme. She is currently project manager for Blue Transition on behalf of LIAG and is also supporting the 16 pilots in developing their strategies for resilient landscapes, i.e. balanced water and land use that minimises the impact of climate change on groundwater and soil.

SPEAKER BIOS

Councillor Elisabet Babic
The North Sea Commission (NSC)

Councillor Elisabet Babic, the President of the North Sea Commission, hails from the Swedish coastal region of Halland. With extensive experience at both the municipal and county council levels, Elisabet is dedicated to enhancing cross-border collaboration. Having initially been chair of the NSC Energy & Climate Change Working Group before becoming a part of the NSC Presidency, her leadership aims to strengthen the capabilities and voice of North Sea Regions through cooperative efforts on multiple levels.

Christian Byrith
Head of Secretariat, North Sea Programme

Christian holds an MSc in Public Administration from the University of Roskilde in Denmark and an MBA from University of Durham. Christian has been Head of Secretariat of the Interreg North Sea Programme since 2007. He has a strong background in economics and has been working with project development and programme administration for more than 25 years.

Camilla Evensson
RISE Research Institutes of Sweden

Camilla is a senior innovation project manager at RISE Research Institutes of Sweden and a driving force in the future of health and care. With a passionate commitment to changing how we view healthcare, technology and societal development, she leads several national and international projects.

In her work, Camilla mobilizes actors from across society to jointly meet some of the greatest societal challenges of our time, such as demographic shifts, the integration of innovative technologies and the need for sustainable healthcare structures. She has extensive experience in building and leading interdisciplinary collaborations across national borders and co-creating tech-driven solutions for tomorrow's health and care system, with the aim of creating long-term societal, organizational and individual resilience.

SPEAKER BIOS

Thijn de Voogd

Department of Sustainability of the City of Arnhem in the Netherlands

Thijn de Voogd is a policy advisor at the Department of Sustainability of the City of Arnhem in the Netherlands, working on the intersection of energy transition, sustainable urban development and social issues. He is the Lead Partner for the North Sea Region COOL CITIES project, in which 11 partners of 5 EU-member states focus on reducing outdoor heat stress in cities.

The project aims to set up a Roadmap to realise a Cool Network; a physical network of cool spots linked by cool shaded routes. He has also the lead in the North-Western Europe SCEPA project tackling energy poverty. With a background in communication and experience in supporting community-led sustainability efforts, Thijn is interested in how local governments can enable residents to contribute to the energy transition and climate adaptation. He works to connect policy with everyday practice, and values collaboration between cities, communities, and international partners to find workable and fair solutions for complex urban challenges.

Melanie Walter
